

What works in protecting children living in 'highly resistant' families?

C4EO for the sector
from the sector

The Centre for Excellence and Outcomes in Children and Young People's Services (C4EO) is holding 5 Regional Knowledge Workshops for professionals across Children's Trusts.

Following the successful delivery of a series of national Safeguarding conferences, C4EO is delighted to inform you of the forthcoming Regional Workshops relating to Safeguarding.

What will be covered?

- What are the circumstances, characteristics and prevalence of families that are resistant to change?
- What challenges to practice and oversight are raised by a lack of positive change for families?
- What can you do that is effective for families where positive change is difficult?
 - Explore what data can tell us
 - Debate key issues
 - Exchange knowledge
 - Access support
 - Consider commissioning implications

Delegates should be those responsible for driving forward change and improvements in your local safeguarding arrangements, in areas such as quality assurance, workforce development and training, change management or evidence informed practice.

| Date | City |
|------------------------|------------|
| 11 th March | Manchester |
| 16 th March | Bristol |
| 17 th March | Birmingham |
| 23 rd March | London |
| 25 th March | Leeds |

Contact C4EObookings@rip.org.uk for more details.

4 FREE places available per Children's Trust area – open to key personnel across agencies including: LCSB Chairs, safeguarding leads from Local Authorities, PCTs, police and commissioning champions.

There is no simple answer to improving safeguarding services – but we can start by asking the right questions.

